i Specimens considered to be "lawfully imported" as personal effects are those specimens imported into Australia in accordance with permit requirements, including permit exemptions for personal effects provided under the Environment Protection and Biodiversity Conservation Act 1999 and Environment Protection and Biodiversity Conservation Regulations 2000. As the method of transport for personal items is not possible to determine, specimens that met personal effects exemptions requirements were assumed to be lawfully imported.

ii Figures on trade occurring during 2013 is derived from data provided by the Department to the CITES Secretariat (as part Australia's annual reporting obligations) that is yet to be published on the CITES Trade Database.

iii Specimens considered to be "lawfully imported" are those specimens imported into Australia in accordance with permit requirements under the Environment Protection and Biodiversity Conservation Act 1999 and Environment Protection and Biodiversity Conservation Regulations 2000.
